Andreas Girgensohn , Alison Lee

Proceedings of the 2002 ACM conference on Computer supported cooperative work
November 2002

Technology can play an important role in enabling people to interact with each other. The Web is one such technology with the affordances for sharing information and for connecting people to people. In this paper, we describe the design of two social interaction Web sites for two different social groups. We review several related efforts to provide principles for creating social interaction environments and describe the specific principles that guided our design. To examine the effectiveness of ...

Shona Leitch , Matthew Warren

Selected papers from the second Australian Institute conference on Computer ethics - Volume 1 November 2000

Ethics is an important element in all aspects of computing, but proves to be a real problem in the development and delivery of electronic commerce systems. There are many aspects of ethics that can affect electronic commerce systems, but perhaps the most notable and worrying to both consumers and developers is that of trust. In a world where so much information is transmitted and shared electronically, ethical standards that in general society are applied to this medium, are often ignored or forg ...

 Isabel F. Cruz , Gerard T. McGuire

Proceedings of the 17th annual international conference on Computer documentation
October 1999

The publication of conference proceedings and technical journals generates the need for a consistent format or set of admissible formats, easily enforceable across the submissions of the authors. In this paper we present an approach for the integration of electronic documents, which is part of a system called PANDA. Our approach has benefits for editors, authors, and readers: it easily allows the editor to provide multiple user interfaces with minimal overhead, while the authors can present ...
